This is a general guide to using the Harvard Referencing System (also known as the name and date system). It is based on the British Standards. Many courses have their own convention for how to reference your work. If your tutor has given you guidance on referencing, follow that instead.

There are two parts to referencing: i) marking in your assignment when you are using another person’s words or referring to another person’s ideas (in-text referencing) and ii) listing the details of all these references at the end of your assignment. All references in the body of your assignment must match up with a full reference in your final reference list. This must include the information that your reader will need to easily find each work you are referring to.

The reference list at the end of your work demonstrates the depth of your research. It also acknowledges your sources of information which, together with your in-text references, protects you against the serious charge of plagiarism (passing off others’ ideas as your own). Every quotation or mention of another person’s ideas, theories or data must reference the source it is taken from. So keep records of all the sources you use in your work as you go!

REFERENCES WITHIN YOUR ASSIGNMENT
You can refer to the work of others in several ways within your assignment:
1. Short quote – enclose in quotation marks within your sentence.
2. Long quote – start on a new line, use single spacing and indent.
3. Paraphrase – put another person’s ideas into your own words.

All of these must include a reference to your original source by inserting the author’s surname, year of publication and page number(s) if appropriate within your sentence. If you have quoted (or paraphrased a particular short section) you should include the page number(s); if you are summarising a large section or the entire work, you do not need to include a page number.

EXAMPLES
Author surname appears in the body of your sentence – just add the year [and page(s) if appropriate] after the name where it occurs.

As Smith (2013, p.16) states, all resources must be referenced.

Author surname is not given within the sentence – include the surname, year [and page(s) if appropriate] in brackets at the end of the sentence.

It has been stated that all resources used to support your arguments must be included in your reference list (Smith 2013, p.16).

If your source has multiple authors, a corporate author or no author, see the table on page 4 for how to format these in your in-text references and full reference list.

REFERENCE LIST AT THE END OF YOUR ASSIGNMENT
This factsheet provides examples for common sources you are likely to use. If you use a source that is not covered, there are further examples on succeed@solent. If you still cannot find an example for your source, create a reference based on these general referencing principles:

1. Author details (surname first) – use a corporate author/organisation if no individual is named
2. Year the material was published/created
3. Title details
4. Publication details – where and by whom a document was published (not always given for electronic material)
5. Online access details for sources that may change – please include web address and date you viewed it (you do not need to include online access details for electronic versions of academic sources such as books and journal articles).
The reference list should be arranged in alphabetical order by author. If an author has written alone and with others, the solo works come first, followed by any joint works.

If an author has written more than one solo work, list them in date order (oldest to newest).

If an author has written more than one work in a year, you need to add a, b, c, after the year for each reference to differentiate them.

In text: (Dominelli 2002a)

In text: (Dominelli 2002b)

STYLE NOTE
This is Solent University’s interpretation of the British Standard Harvard referencing style. Whatever approach you take, you must be consistent in the style of your references.

GETTING MORE HELP
For more information and examples of how to reference other types of publication, please see the referencing tutorial in succeed@solent.

If you need further help with referencing, please contact your lecturer or email referencing.support@solent.ac.uk

More information is available from books in the library’s learning skills collection which is shelved at 029.65.

Please note that Harvard is a popular style of referencing but there are other styles you could use. Please check with your tutor as to which style you are expected to follow.

REFERENCES

---

ACADEMIC SOURCES (please see the referencing tutorial on succeed@solent for more examples)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Source</th>
<th>In-text reference examples</th>
<th>Full reference example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Johns (2014) has argued...</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>As indicated by Busch (2001, p.23) ...</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Brandon has argued that &quot;.......&quot; (2003, p.39)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Journal articles</td>
<td>... (Hodgkinson and Tilley 2007)</td>
<td>AUTHOR(S), Year of publication. Title of article. Title of journal, volume number(issue or part number), pages HODGKINSON, S. and N. TILLEY, 2007. Travel-to-crime: homing in on the victim. International review of victimology, 14(3), 281-298</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Hodgkinson and Tilley (2007) have found ...</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
ALTERNATIVE SOURCES (please see the referencing tutorial on succeed@solent for more examples)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Source</th>
<th>In-text reference examples</th>
<th>Full reference example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Blogs</td>
<td>... (Bradley 2008)</td>
<td>Blogs – include the web address and the date at which you viewed it (this is needed in case the web page changes and the URL is updated):&lt;br&gt;AUTHOR(S), Year. Title of blog entry. In: Blog title. Full date of blog entry [viewed date]. Available from: URL&lt;br&gt;BRADLEY, P., 2008. Word of the day is 'exaflood'. In: Phil Bradley's weblog. 29 April 2008 [viewed 9 May 2008]. Available from: http://philbradley.typepad.com/phil_bradies_weblog/</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Film or DVD/video | As seen in Macbeth (1948) ...  Macbeth also ...  ... (From faking it to making it 2005)  Include the year the first time you reference a film/DVD, after that the title is enough | Generally cited by title as they are collaborative ventures:  Title, Year [material designation]. Subsidiary originator (if applicable, for example, director).
Production details
Macbeth, 1948 [film]. Directed by Orson WELLES. USA: Republic Pictures From faking it to making it, 2005 [DVD]. Video Arts |
| Images and artistic pieces | Reference an image according to the SOURCE it was found in - such as a book, website, gallery. For an artistic piece, see the example below.
Printed images are usually found in books, magazines etc. Follow the example for how to reference a book, magazine article etc. as appropriate.
Electronic images are usually found on websites or in databases. Follow the example for referencing a website.
ARTIST/CREATOR, Year. Title of work [material designation]. At: Location
DEGAS, E., 1880. Dancing lesson [oil on canvas]. At: Williamstown, Massachusetts: Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute (no.562) |
| Images from print source | Radner and Stringer (2011, p.76) use the image... |  |
| Images from electronic source | The photograph depicts... (BBC 2019) | Electronic images are usually found on websites or in databases. Follow the example for referencing a website. |
| Artistic piece i.e. sculpture, photograph, mannequin | Degas (1880) exemplifies the... |  |
| Newspaper and magazine articles | ... (Foreman 2005, p.2)
Foreman (2005, p.2) has identified... |
AUTHOR(S), Year of publication. Title of article. Title of newspaper/magazine, day and month, pages
FOREMAN, J., 2005. Olympic cities brought to their knees by the games. Daily mail, 7 July, 1-2 |
| Online reports | ... (Lawton 2007)
This has been discussed by Lawton (2007)... |
AUTHOR(S), Year of publication. Title. Place of publication: Publisher [viewed date]. Available from: URL
Some web resources do not give all the details you would find in a printed resource. Just include as much detail as is available to help the reader locate your source. |
| Presentations and lecture notes | As stated by Brown (2014) ... | You are advised to use academic sources for your work, but if you wish to reference lecture notes or presentations you could follow this example:
LECTURER /PRESENTER, Year. Title of lecture/presentation. Lecture/Presentation delivered to [course name, level #], date of lecture
BROWN, P., 2014. The basics of Civil Engineering. Lecture delivered to HNC Civil Engineering, Level 4, 10th October 2014 |
| Television or radio programme | ... (Mary, queen of shops 2007)
As found by Woman's hour (2008)... |
Programme title, Year [medium]. Channel. Date. Time [if necessary]
Mary, queen of shops, 2007 [TV]. BBC2. 31 May. 21:00
Woman's hour, 2008 [radio]. BBC Radio 4. 23 June
See succeed@solent for how to reference specific episodes of a series and on-demand programmes |
| Web pages including YouTube and Lynda.com | ... (University of Staffordshire 2003)
Findings from the University of Staffordshire (2003)... |
Web pages – include the web address and the date at which you viewed it (this is needed in case the web page changes and the URL is updated).
AUTHOR(S), Year of publication. Title [viewed date]. Available from: URL
| PDF documents | Many documents are made available as PDFs – this is the format for viewing the document. To reference it, work out what type of publication the PDF is. Is it a PDF of a book? Journal article? Conference paper? Report? You can then follow the reference style for the publication type. |  |
SECONDARY REFERENCES – when referring to a source discussed in a text you are reading, reference the source you have actually read

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Source</th>
<th>In-text reference examples</th>
<th>Full reference example</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

AUTHORS – MULTIPLE, CORPORATE AND MISSING AUTHORS

| Two or three authors – subsequent authors’ initial(s) come before surname | … (Smith, Stewart and Cullen 2006) Smith, Stewart and Cullen (2006) state … | SMITH, F., R. STEWART and D. CULLEN, 2006. Adoption now: law, regulations, guidance and standards. London: BAAF |

USEFUL ABBREVIATIONS

- Anon. anonymous
- ed(s). editor(s) or edition
- et al. and others (multiple authors)
- n.d. date unknown
- p. page
- pp. pages
- ibid. in the same book or article
- op. cit. in the work already quoted

CONTACT
Mountbatten Library
Enquiries: 023 8201 3681
www.solent.ac.uk/library